Vol. 26 No. 21 Dance, like nobody is watching. May 23, 2018

The other life JUDE MCCUDDEN, GIRL FROM OZ

As an expat from the Southern hemisphere, that 'other life' usually coasts along inside your head quite calmly. But occasionally, it knocks on the door and jolts your reality. It's how you open the door and deal with it, that's the key. Lately the door seems to be banging very loudly. You want to say, 'Go away! I'm 1000s of miles away.' And yet, technology allows for instant communication. When the phone rings at 1 am. Or an email demands your immediate attention. A family member goes missing for 4 days. A mice plague disturbs the tenant in your house. A son rights off the car you've given him and its still registered in your name. You can ignore this emotional pull. Tell them its Spring here. You've got yard work to do, seedlings to cultivate, you're waiting for rain. You're cheering on the Jets right now. It doesn't work. You take a deep breath and deal with them one by one. Do they want to know about your problems? Oh no! You're too far away. Funny that!

Something to ponder

"As a spiritual person, nature for me has always been a healing place. Going back all the way to my childhood on the farm, the fields and forests were places of adventure and self-discovery. Animals were companions and friends, and the world moved at a slower, more rational pace than the bustling cities where I'd resided my adult life."
 - David Mixner

Something to ponder

"Springtime is never about sitting at home. It's all about taking in the smells of the earth and frolicking on the lap of nature. In the spring, at the end of the day, you should smell like dirt."

- Margaret Atwood

Some Gardening Tips and Tricks

as taken from the Planet Natural Research Centre

- Like vining vegetables, but don't have the room? Train your melons, squash, and cucumbers onto a vertical trellis or fence. Saves space and looks pretty too.
- Garden vegetables that become over-ripe are an easy target for some pests. Remove them as soon as possible to avoid detection.
- When planting a flower or vegetable transplant, deposit a handful of compost into each hole. Compost will provide transplants with an extra boost that lasts throughout the growing season.
- Diatomaceous earth makes an excellent organic insecticide – it is an abrasive white powder used to damage the cuticle, skin and joints of insects. It also makes an excellent slug barrier.
- Water your garden in the early morning to conserve moisture loss and to help avoid powdery mildew and other fungal diseases that are often spread by high humidity levels.
- Over watering is worse than under watering. It is easier to revive a dry plant than try to dry out drowned roots.
- Healthy soil means a thriving population of microbes, earthworms and other organisms. A soil that has "good tilth" will produce robust garden plants that are better able to resist pests and disease.
- When transplanting tomatoes, cover the stem with soil all the way up to the first set of leaves. This greatly encourages root growth, making a stronger, healthier plant.

Keeping Your Garden Healthy — Maintenance

Here are some tips to keep your garden healthy, green and growing to its fullest potential:

- Feed the soil and the soil feeds the plants. Healthy soil promotes healthy plants that are more capable of resisting insect and disease problems. Feed the soil with plenty of compost and well-aged manure.
- Control weeds. Weeds are a problem in and of themselves, but they also harbor insects and disease. If you weed regularly, particularly at the beginning of the growing season, it should be relatively easy to keep weeds at bay.
- Take out your dead. Get rid of rotting or dead vegetation such as leaves, pulled weeds and plant stalks. Dying vegetable matter can be a haven for pests.
- Disinfect your tools. Keep diseases out of your garden by routinely disinfecting your tools. This is doubly important if your tools come in contact with diseased plant parts.
- Stay cool. When heat strikes, provide shade to your plants to keep them from wilting. Cheesecloth makes great shade cover.
- Provide support. There are several benefits to using plant supports such as trellises, stakes, A-frames and tepees:
 - It increases the space in your garden.
 - Gives plants more exposure to light.
 - Circulates air.
 - Makes it easier to prune and harvest.
- Pick, pick pick. Harvest vegetables as soon as they are ripe and remove harvested plants. If they are disease-free, add them to the compost pile, or, if appropriate, re-work into the soil.
- Keep it clean. Remove and destroy the diseased parts of plants to protect your healthy ones. Find out how much of the plant you need to remove. Sometimes just taking off diseased leaves is sufficient. Depending on the infection, you may have to remove the entire plant.

Happy Gardening!!

Thank You

The family of Lorie Halldorson would like to thank everyone for their many acts of kindness and compassion shown during this difficult time.

Thanks to John and Karen of Arnason Funeral Home, and the Lundar Legion Ladies Auxiliary for the luncheon.

Something to ponder

"In springtime, love is carried on the breeze. Watch out for flying passion and kisses whizzing by your head."

Brain Teasers For Kids.....

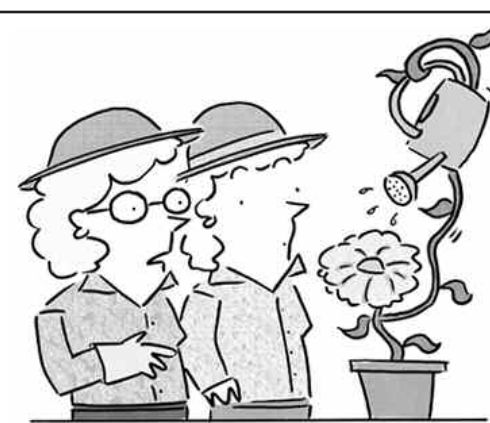

- You are in a cabin and it is pitch black. You have one match on you. Which do you light first, the newspaper, the lamp, the candle, or the fire?
- Who is bigger: Mr. Bigger, Mrs. Bigger, or their baby?
- Jimmy's mother had four children. She named the first Monday. She named the second Tuesday, and she named the third Wednesday. What is the name of the fourth child?
- What is full of holes but can still hold water?
- What can you hold without ever touching or using your hands?
- First, I threw away the outside and cooked the inside. Then I ate the outside and threw away the inside. What did I eat?

Answers:
1. The match!
2. The baby, because he is a little bigger.
3. Jimmy, because Jimmy's mother had four children!
4. A sponge
5. Your breath
6. Corn on the cob

La Luz y La Verdad

"If ye fulfil the royal law according to scripture, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well: but if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convinced of the law as transgressors. For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all. For he that said, Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a transgressor of the law. So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty."

- JAMES 2:8-12 KJV
