Up, Up & Away!

JUDE MCCUDDEN, GIRL FROM OZ

Airports are interesting but strange places. They're like a small city you pass through briefly. For some, who commute regularly through them due to business, they become a home away from home. And for this reason, the design of airports has become integral to their success. The flow of human traffic, clear information signage, quick access to terminals for in-transit passengers, quiet nooks to recharge batteries- (that's technology devices and your own body!) are important considerations. One thing I notice is light. Airports that have natural light with large windows and sky light rooves, seem to create a more relaxed atmosphere. Some of my in-transit trips have been multiple stop overs. Try Winnipeg to Chicago, Chicago to L.A., L.A. to Sydney, Sydney to Melbourne. And if all those planes are on time and connections all work, its like winning the lottery. In 2012, I took two flights to Washington to spend a USA Thanksgiving with a nephew. It was a cold, snowy November and thousands of citizens were flying home for Thanks giving. It was an amazing sight. Yesterday, I came out of customs at Melbourne airport after 18 hours of in transit flights to a sea of anxious rushing passengers. It was 8 am, cold and pouring with rain, our cell phones didn't register in the southern hemisphere and I couldn't find relatives who were meeting us. I left a tired disorientated husband with luggage while I went in search of a public telephone, tried to change a Toony for Aussie coins and finally made contact. When I returned to him, with the noise of planes, taxis, buses and overhead speakers jarring us, he showed me a large wet maple leaf that had blown onto his suitcase. I took it as a welcome sign.

“Therefore seeing we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we faint not; but have renounced the hidden things of dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, nor handling the word of God deceitfully: but by manifestation of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God. But if our gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost: in whom the god of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them. For we preach not ourselves but Christ Jesus the Lord.”

Father's Day Funny

Teacher (on phone): You say Michael has a cold and can't come to school today? To whom am I speaking?
Voice: This is my father.

Johnny's father: Let me see your report card.
Johnny: I don't have it.
Johnny's father: Why not?
Johnny: My friend just borrowed it. He wants to scare his parents.

“Dad, are bugs good to eat?” asked the boy.
“Let's not talk about such things at the dinner table, son,” his father replied.
After dinner the father inquired, “Now, son, what did you want to ask me?”
“Oh, nothing,” the boy said. “There was a bug in your soup, but now it's gone.”

Pee Wee: How is the baby bird like its dad?
Westy: How?
Pee Wee: It's a chirp off the old

Dad: You'll never amount to anything because you procrastinate.
Son: Oh yeah? Just you wait!
